

Clinical Negligence

Helping you claim compensation

What they say

"This... 'superbly impressive' team punches well above its weight in the clinical negligence arena. Clients appreciate its 'attentive communication and thorough grasp of issues from the outset', while peers happily refer conflicted work here."

Chambers UK, 2009

Clinical negligence is a complex area of law. Cases often have a high profile - particularly when substantial damages are awarded.

If you are a patient who has concerns about your medical treatment, it can be difficult to know where to start. At this particularly distressing time, you need to work with lawyers who understand the intricacies of clinical negligence law and will take time to carefully explain all your options to you.

Ensuring you or your family are looked after

The Clinical Negligence team at Charles Russell understands that this is a challenging time for you. You are concerned about the medical treatment you or a family member has received and you are worried about the costs involved should you pursue it. Which is why we will give you sensible and realistic advice about your legal rights. And take time to discuss the best funding options available to you, including conditional fee arrangements and public funding.

Of course, we will work hard to ensure you receive the maximum award possible. But we also recognise that the claim may not be just about money: obtaining an apology, or an assurance that a similar mistake will not be repeated, can play an important part in helping you get on with your life.

Our clinical negligence lawyers form a small, highly specialised and talented team within our large law firm. This means we are easily accessible to answer any queries you may have. And of course, you will be working with the same senior lawyers throughout your case. It is this high level of personal involvement which sets us apart from our competitors.

We have had many years of practical experience dealing with some of the most complex and demanding cases. It is this experience coupled with our medical knowledge and expertise which will enable us to get the right result for you.

Our areas of expertise include:

- Areas of misdiagnosis
- Surgical procedures
- Injuries caused at birth
- Infection related claims
- Inappropriate or delayed treatment
- Lack of informed consent
- Maximising assessment of compensation

More information

Fiona Lawrence

+44 (0)1483 252617

fiona.lawrence@charlesrussell.co.uk
