

Immigration

Bringing key foreign nationals to the UK

Who we work with

We advise major international businesses on an ongoing basis in relation to immigration issues and applications. These businesses cover a number of sectors including sports and leisure, TV and media, financial institutions, IT and manufacturing.

We also advise on personal immigration matters for high net worth and highly skilled individuals.

Immigration is a constantly changing area of the law. In recent years, particularly, there have been unprecedented amendments to legislation.

As an employer, or business-owner, you need to review overseas recruitment practices on a regular basis, and get to grips with the latest immigration categories and requirements. Get it wrong, and you could face a £10,000 fine or a custodial sentence.

If you are recruiting overseas, or transferring executives from your overseas offices into the UK, or simply employing a diverse workforce, you need to work alongside a team of immigration experts who are up-to-date with the latest legislation, and dedicated to getting people moving as quickly as possible.

Organising the paperwork

The Immigration team at Charles Russell understands that having the right team in the right place is critical for the success of your business. When you need senior people here in the UK, you need them here as soon as possible.

Which is why, when it comes to corporate and executive immigration matters, we work hard to make sure every part of the application process is dealt with swiftly, and you are kept informed every step of the way. And if we come up against problems, we will quickly work around them to find a solution.

Equally, understanding the issues and protecting your business or organisation from immigration offences is now important for every employer in the UK.

Our Immigration team works alongside our Employment and Pensions teams, so we are able to offer expert advice on all employment and pensions matters.

Our immigration services include:

- Applications under the Points Based System
- Setting up new branches and subsidiaries
- Business start-ups
- Ex-pat terms and conditions
- Multi-jurisdictional advice and applications
- Employment contracts for international workers
- Immigration procedures and training
- Advice on Home Office enforcement and offence

More information

Michael Bradshaw

+44 (0)20 7203 5329

michael.bradshaw@charlesrussell.co.uk
